PROCURECIRCULAR.

Problem

Manufacturing clothing produces a huge amount of waste every year.

How do you use design and phenomenal UX to kick start a circular economy within the textiles industry?

Solution

We worked with ProcureCircular's existing branding agency to fuse together the strong brand identify it had established with platform UX and UI design.

We spent some time researching the industry, reading everything we could so we could educate ourselves and be a partner that could drive this business forward.

"Agentify have been exceptional since the first meeting. Incredible hands on and practical, as a client we felt understood and supported prior to the engagement being signed. Our business has accelerated forward in a very short space of time since engaging with the team. Agentify have been extremely impressive in their agility and delivery, the journey has been transformational."
